Client Profile

The Gateway Center is a resource center for exploring the design history of the coastal south. Located in Greenville NC, the Center is a partnership between the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources and East Carolina University's Department of History, with major funding from the Golden LEAF Foundation.

This state-of-the-art facility allows visitors and scholars to research the rich history of the region, as evidenced by the implements and furnishings used by residents. Research published and programs conducted by the Center paint a detailed portrait of everyday life in the area

The Center includes:

- Visitor reception area
- Exhibition space
- Meeting rooms with full audio/video capabilities
- Facilities for researchers
- Documentation workroom
