

Guidelines: Response to an Ethical Issue

Tentative Major Due Dates:

Date.....Proposal
Date.....Outline and Draft Introduction
Date.....Source Analysis
Date.....Draft Peer Review
Date.....Final Submission

Description:

You will identify, investigate, report on, and respond to an ethical issue in your discipline / field. You will responsibly represent divergent viewpoints on the issue and provide your own informed response. Non-experts, including students in your major, are your audience.

This academic paper is your own argument, but you should take into account what you've learned during this course:

- Show the conversation issue your paper is responding to.
- Introduce and summarize divergent viewpoints.
- Objectively state your own response.
- Address possible objections (naysayers) to your response.
- Provide significant credible support for all arguments.
- Cite and acknowledge sources in the document style of your field.
- Convince readers the issue matters.
